23rd Annual LSO Award Presentation

Now entering its 23rd year, Life Sciences Ontario's (LSO) annual celebration of success has formed a reputation as an important platform to recognize the individuals and companies driving the success of Ontario life sciences. The LSO Awards are also our largest single fundraising vehicle—supporting our advocacy, educational, and networking events. The event also serves an important charitable function: proceeds from the event's silent auction support Sanofi Biogenius Canada.

Why Life Sciences Matter!

The Life Sciences Sector

The life sciences sector is broad and encompasses research, development and manufacturing operations as well as the development of diagnostics, biopharmaceuticals, pharmaceuticals and medical devices. Health research institutions and research networks play an integral role in research and knowledge translation in the life sciences sector.

As the demand for pharmaceuticals, medical technology and other healthcare products continues to rise, global prescription drug and medical technology sales are expected to grow. Emerging technologies, including AI, cognitive technologies, automation, and computer power, are driving significant advancements within the life sciences sector that can enhance healthcare across the globe.
